FOREWORD

The Dictionary of Ukrainian Canadian Biography, Pioneer Settlers of Manitoba 1891—1900 is indeed fortunate to have as its compiler and editor Dr. Vladimir J. Kaye. Dr. Kaye has, of course, already established himself in the study of the Ukrainian pioneers of Canada with his Early Ukrainian Settlements in Canada, 1895—1900, published in 1964. Of distinguished Ukrainian origin himself, he brings to Ukrainian history in Canada that intimate understanding and personal devotion without which much of the exacting work of the history of settlement would not be done. A scholar himself, he unites in his person European scholarship, friendship with Canadian scholars such as the late W.J. Rose and George W. Simpson, and a career since 1928 in Canada spent in the study of Ukrainian pioneers.

Canada itself is fortunate that in 1941 Dr. Kaye became a member with Dr. Simpson of a special information branch of the Department of National War Services to promote co-operation with Canadians of recent European origin. That wartime measure had its own limited purposes, but it was to become in 1950 part of the new Department of Citizenship and Immigration. In both Dr. Kaye acted as liaison officer with ethnic groups and their press. Dr. Kaye's extensive knowledge of European languages and of the historical background of Canadians of European origin made him an active and a creative force in the Department's work, and in the formation of a new attitude in government and public to newcomers who were committing their lives and fortunes to Canada. We see in his work, as part of other influences, the growing concept of Canadian citizenship and nationality as an integration of people of diverse origins and cultures in one co-operative enterprise based on mutual respect and on a growing knowledge of one another.

In the Dictionary Dr. Kaye carries his work to its ultimate conclusion, the assembly in orderly form of what details may be recovered of the facts of place of birth, date of migration, place of settlement, marriage, children, and time of death of each Ukrainian pioneer, in this volume, of Manitoba. The task is one of extraordinary devotion, unequalled, so far as the writer's knowledge goes, in the history of any other group of Canadians except the French. Henceforth Dr. Kaye's name will be linked with that of Dr. Cyprien Tanguay and his Dictionnaire genealogique des familles canadiennes in seven volumes. That French and Ukrainian Canadians should produce such monumental records of every possible member of their people is at once a symbol of and a tribute to the cohesiveness of their group and their pride in their origins and cultures.

The reader will be impressed, however, not only with the monumental character of Dr. Kaye's work, and its utility as a tool for future research, but also by the extreme difficulty of the task he has carried forward thus far. It is not so much that records are lacking; indeed one is surprised at the number and systematic character of birth certificates, steamship pursers' notes and records of naturalization. The main source of difficulty lies in the mutilation and misspelling of Ukrainian names by the officials who wrote them down in the first place. A Canadian of English origin in all honesty must feel a certain sympathy with people of no scholarly pretensions and no familiarity with Slavonic languages and phonology. Even so, one detects an impatience with strange-sounding names which is all too revealing of the bleak welcome many immigrants in fact received. From this lack of understanding came changes in the spelling of names, sometimes complete changes of name, and even, one imagines, in complete weariness the adoption of English names or English forms of Ukrainian names. In addition there were the difficulties of tracing the lives of settlers in new districts imperfectly supplied with local services and often without a local newspaper in the early years. Nor were the obituary notes, when the time came for them, always as full, specific, or even as correct, as the Dictionary required.

A record has been compiled, however, remarkably full in the circumstances and capable, as all living works are, of being corrected and amplified. Indeed, it will challenge both correction and addition from its users. For the meaning of such a Dictionary is that it is a living, and therefore an ongoing, record of the times of people who live on in their descendants. The central part of that meaning is that in this Dictionary is a noble, if uncomplete, portion of the record of people who by their endeavours and the resilience of their spirit created Canada.

The French and the English may, with some justice, claim to be founding peoples, in that they did establish the official languages and the legal and political institutions of Canada. That, however, was an accident of the time of their immigration here. Other languages and other institutions would have served as well. Canada has been and will be the creation of all its people of whom those tabulated here were not the least.

INTRODUCTION

The biographies contained in the Dictionary of Ukrainian Canadian Biography are not intended to serve as a record of activities of the persons concerned, but are intended to offer material for further sociological, demographic, statistical and genealogical studies on Ukrainian agricultural settlers who entered Canada during the first phase of immigration from 1891-1900.

It has been observed in the course of the research that there existed even then in contemporary documentary records discrepancies in the dates of birth, names of places of origin, the ages given and in the spelling of names. These discrepancies often created confusion, particularly, when a number of persons with identical names were encountered, with no means of identification.

The spelling of names has been retained as found in the various documents and in obituary notices published in the local press; the present spelling of the names was added when available, this was not always possible as very often members of one and the same family adopted different ways of spelling their names.

An attempt has been made to include in the biographies as much as possible, the names of places of origin for further demographic studies. In the course of the researches it was found that about ninety per cent of the settlers of the period dealt with in the Dictionary originated from a very distinct region; the basin of the middle Dnister and middle Pruth rivers in the south-eastern part of the province of Galicia and the adjoining part of the province of Bukovina in the former Austrian Empire. The center of this region consisted of the districts of Borshchiv and Zolishchyky in Galicia and the districts of Zastavna and Kitsman in Bukovina. Archeological researches and recent excavations conducted in this region have revealed the basin to be the western centre of the neolithic Trypilian (Tripolye) culture. Excavations made in the villages from where the bulk of the early Ukrainian settlers originated, i.e. in the districts of Borshchiv, Zolishchyky, Zastavna and Kitsman, have produced rich finds of ancient potsherds, domestic utensils, but, above all, a proof of agricultural settlement and agricultural activities at a time when other inhabitants of neolithic Europe were still nomadic. The inhabitants of these neolithic settlements "lived in well constructed houses, not known in other parts of Europe."¹ They grew wheat, barley, rye and millet, stored grain in pits, raised cattle, sheep and goats, pigs and geese.²

Basing their theory on recent discoveries, archeologists believe that the beginning of the Trypilian culture may go as far back as 5,000 B.C. Archeologists have made another observation. The beautifully painted ceramics, potsherds of the Trypilian culture found in the middle Dnister and middle Pruth basin display colorings and motifs of ornaments very similar to those used in the same districts today in embroideries, kilims, Easter egg designs and potteries.³ Whether there exists a connection between the original neolithic agriculturists of that region and the later peasant population is now being studied by archeologists and anthropologists, but the fact remains that the settlers who came to Canada from that ancient agricultural region were imbued with a deep attachment to the soil.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is difficult to enumerate all the persons and institutions who have rendered their valuable assistance in the preparation of the material for the Dictionary of Ukrainian Canadian Biography 1891-1900—Pioneer Settlers of Manitoba. I shall mention at least some of them, although the expressions of my gratitude go to all who kindly offered their help by contributing information and advice, which I immeasurably appreciated.

I am deeply indebted above all to the most obliging Staff of the Public Archives of Canada, its Historical Branch, and Library, for their assistance in procuring the necessary documentary material which forms the basis of the Dictionary. I also wish to express my profound thanks to the heads and staff of the Manitoba archives and the Manitoba Parliamentary Library for their untiring assistance rendered to me.

My gratitude to the late Dr. George W. Brown, General Editor of the Dictionary of Canadian Biography is expressed posthumously for his valuable guidance in the outlining of the plan of the Dictionary and his constant advice which I received during the initial years of researches.

Most valuable suggestions, help and encouragement were received from Senator Paul Yuzyk, Professor of history at the University of Ottawa and author of the study The Ukrainians in Manitoba, from Dr. M.H. Marunchak, a noted Ukrainian historian, and from Dr. I.J. Tesla, for which I am most thankful. To John Gregorovich and Andrew Gregorovich, a Department head of Scarborough and Erindale College Libraries, University of Toronto, my sincere thanks for reading the manuscript and making comments.

Dr. John Panchuk of Michigan, Dr. Anthony T. Wachna of Windsor, Ontario and Prof. Octavia Hall of the University of Texas, descendants of the first Ukrainian pioneer settlers in Canada, were very kind in following untiringly the progress of researches and adding valuable biographical data on pioneer settlers needed for the Dictionary.

The generous grant which the Canada Council extended, made the completion of the researches, which covered seven years, possible. I am greatly indebted for this assistance.

My sincere thanks go also to my wife Grace for her encouragement and technical help in the preparation of the draft, and to my daughter Olena (Ph.D.) for her assistance in field work and in the assembly of material.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Involuntary and Voluntary Changes of Personal Names

Discrepancies in the spelling of names encountered in various sources increased considerably the difficulty of research in the preparation of the Dictionary. Original documents, such as birth certificates or passports were available only in rare cases and those which were consulted, served to check the data on passenger lists, the main source of information used to establish the year of birth and the age of the immigrants.

The study revealed that the spellings of names of presumably the same persons differed in sources consulted, therefore a very careful examination of the identity of persons had to be made. As time progressed, modifications of the spelling of names were also observed and noted.

The changes in the spelling of names were of two different kinds: Involuntary Changes caused by outside factors. They were mostly faulty spellings and distortions of names, contained in boat registers and later in naturalization records. Voluntary Changes, initiated by the owners of the names themselves.

Involuntary Changes

Involuntary changes of names were found mainly on boat registers at the time of arrival of immigrants in Canada and a few years later on naturalization documents. It would be more appropriate to list them simply as misspellings and distortions of names.

Boat lists were prepared by pursers often in barely readable handwriting and in a variety of spellings. When the names were copied from passports (not generally required for admission to Canada), the given names often bore the Polish form of spelling, such as Jendrzzej instead of Andrij, Bazyli instead of Wasyl, Jan instead of Ivan, etc. and they were written in Polish orthography, "sz" for sh, "cz" for ch, "j" for y, etc.

Misspellings of names occurred most frequently when they were copied from lists prepared by steamship agents, or recorded by pursers on oral enquiries. The most fantastic distortions were found on boatlists prepared by pursers of English steamship lines not familiar with the Slavonic way of writing.

Such given names as Salami, Vaseline, Graveli, are easily identifiable, but names like Fachgern, Daska, Jefta, Libeltona, Atha, defy identification.

It required diligent searches to identify the bearers of such names as Skakosfarski Miekalo (Szpaczynski, Mykolaj), Mryasah Wawisouts (Hrycak, Vavro), or Kokolyson Andrey (Nykolyshyn, Andrey) S.S. LABRADOR, Liverpool, landing at Halifax 21 Feb. 1897).

The spelling of names on applications for naturalization, on naturalization certificates, on sworn affidavits also showed a surprisingly high number of misspellings and distortions of names, although one would have expected that on official documents with the signature of the judge, of witnesses and interpreters, the names of applicants would be correctly spelled. This was not always the case, particularly during the first years of Ukrainian immigration. To give some examples of such misspellings which occurred during 1903-1905 on certificates of naturalization: Wasyl Zyrynz (Spr. Crt. N.W.T., Edmonton, No. 3691, 2 Nov. 1904)—true name: Wasyl Yaremij; Peter Poilcoit (Supr. Crt. N.W.T. Edmonton, No. 3666, 26 Oct. 1904)—true name: Peter Palcat; Parfree Cachook (Supr. Crt. N.W.T. Edmonton, No. 72, 8 Feb. 1905)—true name: Porfiry Tkachuk; John Cockataille (Supr. Crt. N.W.T. Moosomin, 8 March 1904)—true name: Ivan Kokotailo; Canguk Nykibckiu (Supt. Crt. N.W.T., Edmonton, 30 June, 1903)—true name: Sandyk Zukiwskyi, who signed his name in Cyrillic letters and the clerk of the court copied the signature verbatim.

Sometimes the names were misspelled even in spite of the presence of the applicant's own signature on the very same document: Jakow Matijczuk signed the sworn affidavit on one page and on the other page the clerk of the court spelled his name Jakew Matyszuk (Supr. Crt. N.W.T. Edmonton, 24 Feb. 1904). Jakub Kosiejski signed his name and the clerk of the court spelled it Jacob Kosniski, etc.

To a great extent the court interpreters were also responsible for the distortions of these names. Their task was to prepare the affidavits for the signature of the applicant. If he could not write his name, he signed with the cross and the name was written by the interpreter. Early court interpreters were mostly German colonists from Galicia who had come to Canada a few years earlier, who had acquired a knowledge of the English language and who spoke passable Ukrainian. Improvements in the preparation of naturalization documents appear in 1904 and after, when better qualified interpreters entered the field. In the North West Territories one of the first interpreters of Ukrainian origin was Theodore Nemirsky of Wostok, Alberta, who was also Commissioner of Oaths, the first postmaster of Wostok P.O. and a Land Guide. Meticulous in the preparation of documents he insisted that proper names be spelled the way they were recorded in baptismal certificates. As baptismal certificates in Galicia were often written in Latin, Nemirsky reproduced the names on applications for naturalization also in Latin form, such as Demetrius (Cybulak, Applic. No. 2709, Pakan, Alta., 6 June, 1904); Maximus (Chmelyk, Applic. No. 2943, Krakow, Alta., 10 Aug. 1904); Romanus (Nykilchuk, Beaver Lake, Alta., Applic. No. 3027, 10 Aug. 1904), etc. These modifications of given names, as signatures testify, were made with full approval of the owners.

After 1904 we encounter a number of young interpreters, mostly sons and daughters of the pioneer settlers, who attended local schools and did interpreting when the necessity arose. Some of them, like Michael Gowda or John Kilar, on completion of their education became court interpreters in Edmonton. Among occasional interpreters we encounter on naturalization documents, were: Mike Bryks, Jasko Bryks, John Konik, Mary Batan, John Fylypchook, James Maga, Gregory, Alex and Mary Moisey, and Mary Stewart, probably of Ukrainian origin, wife of Robert Stewart, Commissioner of Oaths.

Voluntary Changes

Voluntary changes of the spelling of names began a few years after the arrival in Canada. Anglicization of given names appeared usually when the homesteader went to work for an English farmer as a hired man, or became a laborer on the railway construction gang. For the foreman of the gang it was more convenient to call Ivan John, or Mykhailo Mike. Some of these early changes encountered on naturalization records are written phonologically and not orthographically (Dzian Michaluk, Dzian Bobyk, Majk Chabun, Majk Namaka—1903, Stieff Olczeszyn—1904). The study of some four thousand naturalization records of the year 1904 showed that most of the rural applicants retained their original given names. It showed also that orthographical changes in the spelling of surnames became frequent, replacing the continental "sz" with the English sh, "cz" with ch, "j" with y, Baschak instead of Baszczak, Kinaschuk instead of Kinaszczuk, Yakiwchuk instead of Jakiwczuk; names ending with -cki were spelled -tski, or -tzki, Chernetski instead of Czernecki, Stryletzki instead of Strylecki, etc. As the owners of these names were not familiar with the rules of onomastics, the changes in spellings differed considerably, although in Ukrainian the names remained unchanged. The changes made by the original settlers were seldom registered officially. Metro Bilowus (b. 1879, d. 1952) spelled his name Bilous, but his descendants made further modifications in the spelling of the name, such as Bellows, Belous, and registered them officially.

The original settlers, as already mentioned, in most cases retained their given names unchanged, and were thus mentioned in the obituary notices in the English local press: Yakiw Myskiw (b. 1818, d. 1918), Nastia Tycholis (b. 1849, d. 1934), Dokya Pakaluk (b. 1865, d. 1934), etc. There were some exceptions though. In some cases when children or grandchildren of the deceased person wrote obituary notices, they gave their grandmothers English names, "Mrs. Molly Mymko, aged 81, died 23 November 1953 in her home in Valley River . . ." or "Mrs. Molly Plawa was born in Kryvche, Austria . . .", "Mrs. Doris Kukurudz died aged 85 . . ." To establish the true name of the deceased, obituary notices in the Ukrainian press or church records had to be consulted. They invariably showed the current calendar names, as registered in baptismal certificates, such as Paraskevia or Pulcheria instead of Pearl in the English obituary, Anastasia instead of Nettie or Nellie, Tatiana instead of Teena or Tillie, etc.

One interesting observation was made when studying naturalization records and obituary notices in the press. The spelling of the names of Polish settlers of the same period remained in most cases unchanged, in spite of the fact that their pronunciation in English did not reproduce the name phonologically. Examples: Martin Modrzejewski (b. 1845, d. 1929), Anton Tchorzewski (b. 1851, d. 1938), Mike Czustkiewicz (b. 1856, d. 1934), Julian Chazewski (b. 1866, d. 1935).

Some of the Polish families who settled in Ukrainian districts followed the Ukrainian custom and changed the spelling of their names to adapt them phonologically. Thus Jan Szczygieski on the sailing list, who settled in a Ukrainian district in southern Manitoba, is recorded as John Schygel'ski on the naturalization document of 1902; the name of Julian Rzesniowski, who settled in the Dauphin district in 1897, was spelled Julian Reznoski in the obituary notice.

Structural changes and additions of second given names began to appear later. They were mostly used by the sons of the original settlers. The second name (only in English) was in most cases the English version of the given name of the father. Patronymics, common in Eastern (former Russian) Ukraine were unknown in Western (former Austrian) Ukraine, from where the majority of settlers came, therefore as a rule, only one given name was used. Only in cases when two persons with the same name lived in a village, a patronymic was added "Nicholas son of Ivan" or whoever he may be (Genik, Nykola Ivaniv, born 1857, died 1953 in Venlaw, Man.—Genik, Nykola, son of Ivan).

In studying obituary notices of pioneer settlers in the English newspapers it was observed that while the names of the pioneer settlers were given in their original Ukrainian form, Protz, Paraska, Dokia, Metro, Wasyl, Ivan, Tymko, or in the accepted equivalent English form of Ukrainian names, William (for Wasyl), John (for Ivan), Fred (for Fedir), Harry (for Hryc), the names of children in the "Birth Announcements" column of the same issue of papers, bore names like: Patricia Angela, Walter Elwyn, Linda Carol, Morley Neil, Judy Lynn, Dwight Edwin, Martin Ross, Verna Theresa, Brant Eddie, Shirley May, Obrien, Gwynneth J. (names taken from Dauphin Herald announcements).

Baptismal records (Libera Natorum) of Ukrainian parishes revealed that all children were given at the baptismal the accepted calendar saints names with only occasional additions of an English name. Many of those calendar names were later used in Anglicized form by the bearers: Myroslav became Morris or Marshall, Stanislas became Stanley, Dokia became Doris, Demko became Duncan, etc.

In the social column of Ukrainian newspapers, on the other hand, when names of participants in various events were given, the accepted English forms of names (in Cyrillic transcription) appeared: Shirley Elko, Lucille Korpan, Patricia Soroka, Maxine Hrabetz, Lunn Melnyk, etc.

In the post-World War Two era, with the entry to Canada of thousands of intellectual immigrants from all parts of Europe, there sprang up among native Canadians an interest in Slavic names. This became noticeable with the Ukrainian group as well, with the gradual acceptance of old traditional Slavic names, such as Nadia, Vera, Olena, Hanka, Tatiana, Olga, Ivan, Taras, in English transcription.

Problems Connected with the Preparation of Biographical Material

The title Dictionary may be too broad a designation. It is intended to present essential factual material to serve as the basis for further sociological, demographic, statistical and historical studies on the Ukrainian ethnic group in Canada.

The contents of the Dictionary are based almost entirely on material obtained from various documentary sources. To have a definite base for the planned study, homestead entries made by Ukrainian pioneer settlers have been selected to form the basis of the Dictionary, beginning with the first name encountered and ending with December 31st, 1899, although, a few names of those who made previous cancellations and filed re-entries at the beginning of 1900 have also been included in the Dictionary.

The choice of the Homestead Grant Register to form the basis was made chiefly for the following reasons: (1) it embraced the majority of the first phase of Ukrainian pioneer settlers, the founders of the numerous colonies most of which bear Ukrainian names; (2) it contained the most reliable information as to the date and place of their settlement; (3) it showed a surprisingly accurate spelling of names in comparison with other documentary sources, which was a considerable assistance in the establishment of the identity of the settlers.

To the extent possible, a list of all of the homestead applicants of Ukrainian origin, beginning with the first entry encountered to those made up to December 31, 1899, was made. In all, 18 volumes of the Homestead Grant Register, covering the years 1872-1900 comprising 81,753 entries were studied and 2,086 names believed to be of Ukrainian settlers, with relevant information, were entered on cards. The homestead records contained such information as the date of application, its number (for eventual further research purposes); the name of the applicant; the legal description of the homestead; the district and listing numbers; whether the homestead was cancelled or retained and whether a patent of ownership was issued.

After a thorough scrutiny of the 2,086 names, some 140 proved to be re-entries after previous cancellations, and another thirty odd were believed to be settlers of non-Ukrainian origin.

To obtain additional biographical data on the settlers, the following sources were studied: (1) the passenger lists of boats landing in the ports of Quebec and Halifax; (2) the naturalization records; (3) the Cummins Rural Directory Maps of 1922 and 1923; Municipal District Maps; (4) the contemporary English and Ukrainian-language newspapers; (5) provincial archives, hospital, parish and cathedral records.

To establish the dates of arrival in Canada, the years of birth (ages) of the settlers, the names of the spouses and children and their ages, places of origin and destination, passenger lists of boats landing in the ports of Quebec and Halifax were studied. During the decade 1890-1900, 780 passenger boats entered the Port of Quebec alone; twice as many entered the Port of Halifax, which was open for navigation the year around. Approximately 282,000 names of passengers were studied and 12,316 names of Ukrainian settlers copied including the information contained on the passenger lists. Subsequently an index of names was drawn up for the preparation of biographies.

A comparison of the names contained on homestead records with the lists of names assembled from boat registers showed certain discrepancies. A number of names contained on boat lists were missing from the homestead records and vice versa. The identification of the names also became a problem. In the majority of cases the spelling of the names on boat lists differed from the spelling of the names on the homestead records, mostly due to faulty spelling by boat pursers. Where the identification was doubtful, the information from boat lists was not entered in index cards.

Some discrepancies between the homestead and boat lists arose due to immigrants landing at the Port of New York and entering Canada by rail. They were not registered the same way as those entering Canada through the Ports of Quebec or Halifax. Official registration of these immigrants was not introduced until 1908, and such important information as the age, marital status, names of wife, and children, was missing. Some information was subsequently collected from obituary notices, death records of parishes, hospitals and other sources, although it is still incomplete in a number of cases.

A certain number of names found on passenger lists were not on the homestead records. One of the most common reasons was that a number of early arrivals settled as 'squatters' on land not released for homesteads, such as timber reserves, swamp lands, government sections, land owned by the railway companies, or abandoned homesteads previously pre-empted with small down-payments but never occupied. After years of illegal occupation of the land on which they settled, and after numerous appeals, they were given permission by Order-in-Council to make homestead entries and to obtain legal rights of ownership. These entries were made after 1900 and subsequently the names of entrants are not included in the Dictionary.

Not all immigrants desiring to settle on land were able to do so immediately on their arrival. Those who arrived in Canada without means had to produce the necessary funds to start farming by working as farm labourers, herdsmen, laborers in cities and on railway extra-gangs. The names of those who came to Canada before 1900, but made homestead entries after that date, are not included in the Dictionary.

Naturalization records supplied further important biographical information on the settlers. Applications for naturalization were usually made by homesteaders when required conditions were fulfilled, at least three years after the entry, to obtain patents of ownership for the land. Applications for naturalization contained detailed information about the progress made on the homestead, acres broken and seeded each year, the number of livestock, condition and value of buildings, etc. The Dictionary extracts only the essential information contained in the Patent, such as the name of the applicant (as it was spelled after three or more years of residence in Canada); the name and place of the settlement; occupation; the name of the former place of settlement; the date of granting naturalization and the name and place of the court.

Approximately 150,000 naturalization records were studied, beginning with 1890 and ending approximately with 1905, and information referring to applicants of Ukrainian origin was entered on index cards. The comparison of names on homestead records with the names on naturalization records showed in many cases a discrepancy in the spelling of names, frequently due to the high number of errors committed by the clerks of the courts. Naturalization records showed also the emergence of new settlements and their names.

To obtain the picture of mobility of the settlers, a study of the Cummins Rural Directory Maps of the years 1922 and 1923 and of Municipal District Maps of later years was made and findings registered in the Dictionary. The Cummins Rural Directory Maps gave the names of the occupant of the particular section, as it was spelled in 1922 or 1923, and the name of the post office which generally coincided with the name of the settlement. This was particularly important as it showed the establishment and growth of new communities. The name of the occupants gave an indication whether the original settler was still alive or whether the homestead was occupied either by one of his sons or by somebody else, which suggests the abandonment of the original homestead for some other place of settlement.

The most difficult facts to obtain were the dates of birth and death of the settler and his spouse, the name of the village, district, and province from where the settler originated, and the names, occupations and places of residence of the children of the pioneer settlers. The main sources of this information were the obituary notices in the Ukrainian and English language newspapers, which are extensively quoted. Less reliable but equally valuable were various memoirs published in book form, in almanacs or in serial form in the press. They supplied the background material for the biographies but their data were not always reliable.

Death records kept by hospitals, such as Winnipeg General Hospital, St. Boniface Hospital, or Dauphin General Hospital, contained in most cases meager information on the deceased rural patient's place of residence, date and place of birth, or even age. More information was contained in the brief obituary notices put in the daily press by funeral homes in charge of interments. They contained as a rule also the names of surviving next of kin, their places of residence and the names of other relatives and friends attending the funeral.

By far the most valuable information for biographical purposes was to be found in the local press. A thorough and detailed study of the local press was made, and information on pioneer settlers copied, verified and entered on index cards. Obituaries in the Ukrainian and English press began to appear more regularly in 1920. Before that date only occasionally was a report about somebody's death published. In the early pioneer days rural correspondents did not exist and the homesteaders, even if they could read and write, often lacked pen and ink and the post offices were miles away. Only when economic conditions improved, the children of the pioneer settlers attending schools reached the age of discretion, regular parishes were established, did obituary notices begin to appear in the local press. The most precise obituaries were written by officiating Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant clergymen. These obituary notices were, as a rule, based on information supplied by the next of kin of the deceased person and on church records contained in parish books. Such obituary notices were published predominantly in the Ukrainian-language press serving the particular denominational group. The semi-monthly Vistnyk/Herald and the weekly Ukrainskyi Holos/Ukrainian Voice published obituaries of persons belonging mostly to the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church; the monthlies Svitlo/The Light, Holos Spasytela/Redeemer's Voice weeklies Ukrainski Visti/Ukrainian News, Post-up/Progress or Nasha Meta/Our Aim published obituaries of persons belonging predominantly to the Ukrainian Catholic Church; the weekly Kanadiyskyi Ranok/Canadian Dawn, Evanhelska Pravda/Evangelical Truth, monthly, published obituaries of persons of Evangelical denominations. Obituaries found in other Ukrainian newspapers, such as Kanadiyskyi Farmer/Canadian Farmer, weekly, Winnipeg, Novyi Shliakh/New Pathway, semi-weekly, Winnipeg, Vilne Slovo/Free Word, weekly, Toronto, with no religious affiliations, were written by local correspondents, relatives of the deceased persons or by friends. These often lacked essential biographical data.

Obituaries published in the Ukrainian newspapers contained information often lacking in the English newspapers, such as the names of the villages and districts from where the settlers originated and the given names of the surviving married daughters. Not all obituary notices, even in the religious newspapers, were written by the officiating clergymen. They were also written by relatives and friends. A general survey of all notices published in the Ukrainian press revealed that a considerable number of them contained minor errors. Such as, for example, "Ivan Sirman died 11 December 1966... he was born in Kalish and came to Canada with his parents in 1894..." (Canadian Farmer, 28 January 1967). A comparison with the sailing records showed that Ivan's parents arrived in Canada 24 June 1897, and not 1894, and he was not born in Kalish but in Kalush. Such minor discrepancies are easily corrected. But if the obituary notice lacks basic biographical information on the deceased person, its value diminishes for the biographer. "(Stach Nahayovsky), one of the oldest pioneer settlers of the district (Hilliard, Alta.) died after a short illness in the Mundare hospital. The deceased was mourned by his daughter Rosalia, four sons...21 grandchildren, 3 great-grandchildren, and one brother John..." (Svitlo/The Light, Jan. 1967). The date of death, the name of (probably deceased) wife, and other biographical data are missing.

If the maiden name of a daughter who married after her arrival in Canada is not given, it is difficult to trace further biographical particulars. "Palahna Holuk died in Rosthern, Sask. 21 April 1962 aged 76... Mrs. Holuk was born in the village of Lanivci, Ukraine, and came to Canada with her parents in 1898 who settled in Rosthern district in Saskatchewan. She married Wasyl Holuk in 1901..." (Canadian Farmer, 24 Sept. 1962). As her maiden name is missing, it is impossible to consult the sailing records to find out when the family arrived, on which boat, the names of parents, brothers, and sisters. General death notices without the definite date of death and other particulars are of limited biographical value. Pioneer Theodor Bilyi died in Edward, Alberta. He lived to be 94 years. Surviving four sons, five daughters, 31 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren..." (Canadian Farmer, 12 Dec. 1960). If the notice had been published in January or February, even the year of death would have been in doubt.

Of the English-language newspapers, the Dauphin Herald weekly contained the most accurate obituary notices of Ukrainian pioneer settlers. Although they began to arrive in the Dauphin district as early as 1896-97, during the first two decades following their settlement only few notices are found in the local press. Obituary notices began to appear more frequently only after 1920.

Early obituary notices were often brief and not always comprehensible to the outside readers. They appeared among other reports of various happenings in the particular communities and were not printed in a separate obituary column. Most of the later obituaries were well edited and contained full biographical information about the deceased, including the history of his (or her) settlement, the names of all surviving children and other information. These obituaries were written by experienced local reporters, who meticulously collected all available information. During the decade 1940-50 regular obituary notices appeared from many communities in the Dauphin region. The names of married daughters of the deceased pioneers were published with the initials or given names of the husbands, for example: "Mrs. Julia Kaczkowski (Melyk) died aged 78 in Dauphin general hospital 24 March 1949 and was survived..by two daughters, Mrs. Nick Litowitz and Mrs. William Swerbyus of Sifton, Manitoba.." (Dauphin Herald 29 March 1949). Locally probably everybody knew which daughter was Mrs. John Litowitz and which was Mrs. William Swerbyus, but to an outside person it was a puzzle. Sailing records state that Wasyl and Julia Kaczowsky had two daughters, Pazia and Anna. Which one was Mrs. Litowitz and which was Mrs. Swerbyus? Beginning in 1956 the given names of the surviving married daughters were added in brackets, such as "Wasyl Sydor, aged 85, died... and was survived by four daughters, Mrs. C. Perth (Mary) of Dauphin, Mrs. M. Homeniuk (Kassie) Mrs. P. Tobak (Ann) of Gilbert Plains, and Mrs. F. Kindret (Pearl) of Winnipeg..." (Dauphin Herald 16 January 1958).

The Stuartburn region of Manitoba was covered by reports contributed regularly by local correspondents and published in the Carillon News weekly of Steinbach, Manitoba. Some of the death notices were very brief and destined only for the local community. "Sincere sympathies of the community are extended to the Paciorka family and other relatives in their bereavement on the loss of mother and sister." (Carillon News, 18 Nov. 1955).

Difficult problems of identification arose when several homestead applicants with identical names were encountered. It required lengthy efforts to establish their identity: Two Ivan Borys' arrived in Canada in 1897 and settled on homesteads in Alberta. One (wife Anna), was born in 1857, arrived March 1897. The other Ivan (wife Anna), born 1842, arrived December 1897. One Ivan Borys settled on a homestead in Edna district, the other in Leduc district. Which Ivan Borys settled in Edna, and which in Leduc? Sailing records were consulted which disclosed that Ivan Borys born in 1842 had a 22-year old son, Semen, who applied and obtained a homestead in the Leduc district; the adjoining quarter section was registered in the name of Ivan Borys, obviously his father, born in 1842. The identity was established.

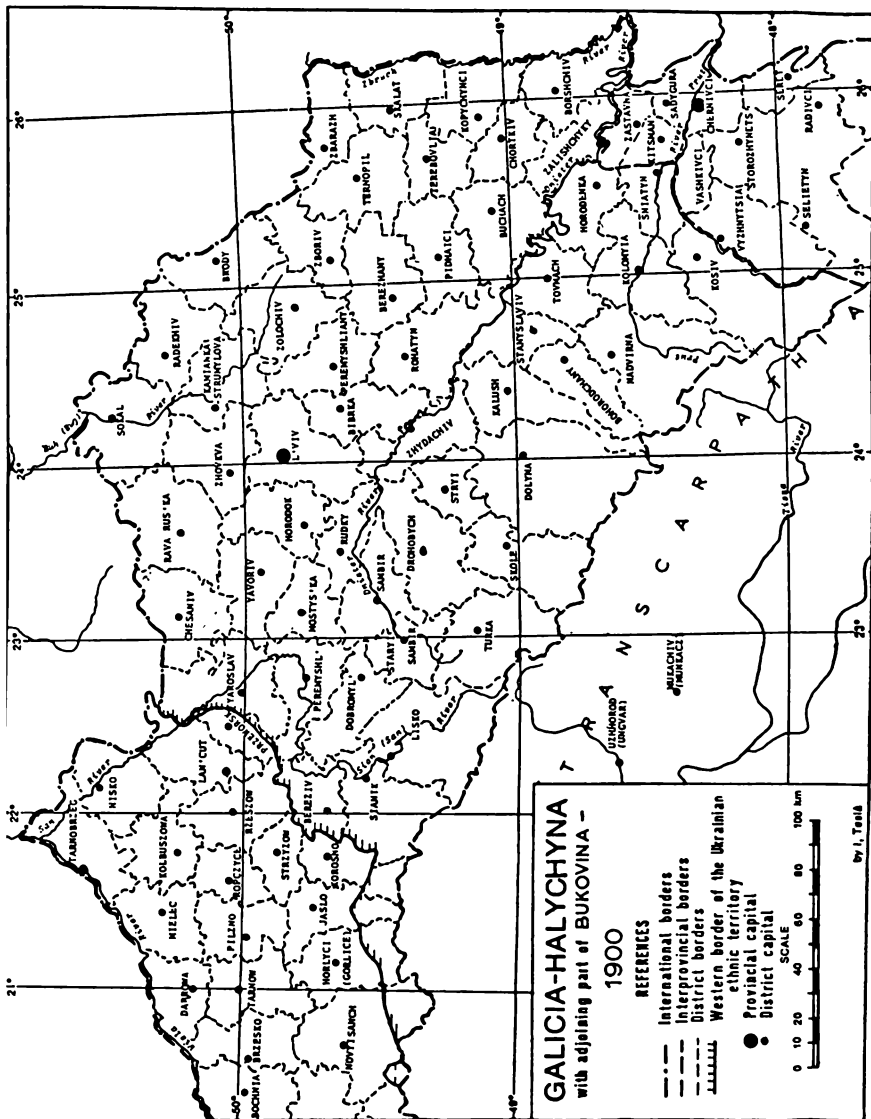

Frequent changes of places of residence also impeded the assembly of biographical information. The task was made still more difficult if the changes of places of residence were accompanied by a change in the spelling of the name. An example: The S.S. NUMIDIAN, landing at Quebec 13 June 1892 listed an immigrant by the name of Michael Romanik aged 32 years. Two weeks later the Homestead Grant Register listed an application for homestead entered by a Michael Romaniak, in the Edna, Alberta district. Michael Romaniak cancelled his homestead and his name disappears from the lists. In 1897 a Michael Romanyk filed an application for homestead in the Stuartburn district in Manitoba, which he cancelled the same year. On 26 April 1898 there appeared an entry for a homestead in Edna, Alberta, under the name of Michael Romanick. Was Michael Romanik, Romaniak, Romanyk, Romanick, one and the same person, or were there four different persons? The question was answered by Michael Romaniuk's son (proper spelling of the name) Ivan who in his memoirs described the family's wanderings from one province to another and their final settlement in the Edna district in Alberta.

Where available, short biographies of the children were added to the general biographies of the pioneer settlers to show their mobility and to indicate the progress in the integration of the group into Canadian society.

GROUP SETTLEMENT

To illustrate the tendency of settlement in groups which predominated during the early period of Ukrainian settlement, 1896-1900, the Stuartburn colony is taken as an example. The table shows the names of the villages and districts from the provinces of Galicia and Bukovina from which the Stuartburn pioneer settlers originated, and the number of families from each individual village.

Name: Andrew Farion. Residence: Brandon, Man. Occupation: Labourer. Former residence: Galicia. Not listed on same quarter section in 1923. (P.O. Sifton, Man. CRDM Man. No. 90. 1923).

According to family tradition, Andrew Farion descended from Laskiw (Leshko) Farion born 1812 in Rydoduby, and was of Ukrainian and French origin. His father was born in France in 1775 of French parents and came to Austria in 1800 in the employ of the lord of the Rydoduby manor, as butler. In 1810 he married a Ukrainian girl, acquired property in the village and settled as a farmer. Leskiw (Leshko) Farion was the first son to be born of that union. In 1836 he married and seven children were born to this union: Andrew, Jan (Ivan), Leshko, Nicola, Danylo, Anna and Maria. Son Andrew, born 1837 married Elizabeth Groszinski (Ogrodnicki?) and five children were born of that union, all emigrated to Canada in 1897; Fred (Theodore), born 9 March 1867, John born 10 July 1870, Maria born 3 Jan. 1875, Harry (Hryhory) born 7 Feb. 1881, and Barbara born 10 Feb. 1884. (Private Inform. Courtesy Farion Family).

Fred Farion settled in Sifton, John settled in Skaro, Alta., Harry settled in Shortdale, and died 6 Dec. 1956 in Grandview hospital. He married Anna Perchaluk in 1901 and they moved to Ashville where Harry farmed for a number of years before moving to live in Sifton town where he operated a flour mill for five years, before moving to Chicago, Ill., where the family lived for eight years, returning to Sifton afterwards. Former residence: Galicia. Listed on same quarter section in 1923. P.O. Sifton, Man. (CRDM Man. No. 90. 1923).

On their arrival in Canada the family went first to Brandon and a year later Frederick Farion filed an application for homestead which he subsequently cancelled. In 1899 he took another homestead which he farmed and was granted patent of ownership in 1903. In 1904 he moved to Sifton town and formed the "Galician Trading Company", in 1908 renamed "Ruthenian Trading Company". In 1917 he bought the Company from the partners and renamed it "The Blue Store—T. Farion". In 1919 he built a mill in Sifton and an elevator in Valley River. In 1925 his son Michael took over the store while father was managing the mill to which he added a bakery as well. The "Farion" bread and flour became known all across Manitoba. In 1941 the management of the mill and bakery went over to his younger son, Walter. Frederick Farion died 20 November 1941 and was survived by his widow, Ksenia (Hrushovy), two brothers, John of Bruderheim, Alta., and Harry of Shortdale; two sisters, Mrs. Maria Wozniak and Mrs. Barbara Nazar of Brandon.

Stach Sass, born 1851 (1847 according to other source) on his arrival in Canada in 1899 took a homestead in the Winnipegosis district. Being short of cash, his two young sons, Oleksa and Safat, went to work in a saw mill; the elder boy earning one dollar per day and upkeep, and the younger earning 20 cents per day and upkeep. The boys slept in the saw mill, while father built a dugout on his homestead, covered it with sods and went on farming. He bought a cow from the Indians and started to clean the bush for sowing. Thus were the beginnings of life on a homestead. Gradually conditions improved, children went to school, but Stach did not live to see them established. He died in 1912. His two sons left farming, went to live in Winnipegosis town and opened a prosperous general store business. (Horodnycia pp. 75-76).

On October 18, 1897, Father Nestor Dmytriw married an Englishman to a Ukrainian girl. The name of the groom was Frederick Nex, born in London, England; he owns a farm near Dauphin and is a printer with the Dauphin Press publishers. The bride is Caroline Zarowny, born in Kosiv near Buchach. (Svoboda/Liberty, Mt. Carmel, Pa. 4 Nov. 1897).

Frederick E. Nex, who acquired knowledge of the Ukrainian language, attempted to publish an English-Ukrainian paper in Dauphin, but had to give up the attempt for the lack of subscribers. He acted as Commissioner of Oath at Dauphin.

Fred Nex formerly publisher of Dauphin News, and who afterwards kept a store at Sifton, was killed near Whitemouth, not long since. He and two other parties were riding on the C.P.R. on a gasoline motor, when it collided with a train. All three were killed. Deceased of recent years held the position of Secretary-Treasurer for the Municipality of Whitemouth. He leaves a widow and several children. (D.H. 2 Jan. 1913).

John son of Ludwig Zarowny, born 1887 in Kosiv, remained with parents in Dauphin until 1905 when he moved to Alberta. In 1908 he married Matrona Wladyka, born in Bilavci, distr. Brody. In 1915 he enlisted in Canadian Armed Forces and served overseas. Discharged in 1919 he settled on half section of land in Calmar, Alta. Farmed until his retirement in 1952. Died in Edmonton 1953 and was survived by eight sons and one daughter. One son was killed during the Second World War. (U.N. 16 April 1953. Obit. of Ivan Zarowny).

He died 4 July 1963 aged 64 in Tolstoi and was survived by his wife Margaret, former Miss Drewniak (his first wife Mary Paciorka predeceased him after some six years in wedlock), sister Mrs. Mary Urbanowski of St. Vital; brother Lukian predeceased him in 1962. (C.N. 19 July 1963. Obit. of Mr. Peter Bially).

Daughter Maria born 1886 arrived in Canada in 1897 with her parents. Five years later she married one of the sons of Ignat Nedohin and they farmed in Overstoneville until her husband's death. She re-married Mr. Urbanowski and remained in Overstoneville until 1954, when she moved to Winnipeg to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Betty Penhall. She died in Winnipeg, in King Edward Hospital 1 September 1965 aged 78 and was survived by eight daughters, four sons, two step-children, one brother, 30 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. One son, Steve, predeceased her in Chicago, Ill., in 1951. (C.N. 23 Sept. 1965. Obit. of Mrs. Mary Urbanowski). Son Lukian married in 1912 Anna Stadnyk, born 23 Dec. 1895 in Duplyska, distr. Zalizhchyky, daughter of Stefan and Paraska Stadnyk.

Cyril Genik attended the Teachers' Seminary at Stanislaviv, Galicia, Western Ukraine, and after graduation attended the Academic Gymnasium at Lviv where he obtained his baccalaureate. He taught public school at Bereziv Nyzhnyi, established through his efforts in 1880. He married Pauline, daughter of Rev. Tsurkowskyi, parish priest of neighboring village Liutcha. After leaving the teaching profession, he opened a general store in the town of Yablonyv. Actively interested in emigration matters, he collaborated with Dr. Josef Oleskiw in advocating Canada as the country for the settlement of Ukrainian peasant-farmers, and decided to emigrate to Canada himself. He came to Canada in the spring of 1896. Dr. Josef Oleskiw recommended Cyril Genik to the Minister of the Interior for employment as an immigration officer. He was first taken on a temporary basis and in due time the temporary status was changed to permanent and Cyril Genik remained in the Civil Service until his resignation in March of 1911. He was one of the first Ukrainian intellectuals to emigrate to Canada and the first to enter Government service. In his later years Cyril Genik moved to live in the United States with two of his children, his eldest daughter Eugenia and the Canadian-born son John. Cyril Genik died in Winnipeg 12 February 1925 and his wife Pauline died 10 April 1933 in Winnipeg, in the home of their eldest son, Constantine. At the time of her death, son John was residing in California, son Alexander in Toronto, Ont.; three daughters, Mrs. Megs of Edmonton, Mrs. Jones of California and Olena Mill with her brother in Winnipeg. Pauline Genik was buried from the Ukrain. Evangelical church by Rev. Eustace. (C.R. 21 April 1933. Obit. of Pauline Genik).

The Genik-Berezowskyi family belonged to a large and ancient clan of Ukrainian gentry, the Berezowskyis of Bereziv bearing Sas coat-of-arms.

Not listed on same quarter section in 1923. (P.O. Stuartburn, Man. CRDM Man. No. 3. 1923). Maksym Stashyn (Stasyshyn) died in 1917; his wife Sophia survived him many years, she died 24 May 1946 at 4720 Goltard Ave. in Vancouver, B.C. and was survived by her son Michael in whose place she lived, and three daughters, Mrs. Dora Krul of Vancouver, B.C., Mrs. Maria Hryniewich of Redfield, Sask., and Mrs. Hania Paranych of Edmonton, Alta.; 16 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. (U.V. 19 June 1946. Obit. of Mrs. Sophia Stashyn).

Maksym's son Michael in his memoirs described the life story of the family (My Memoirs from Forty Years of Life in Canada: "Ukrainian Voice" Calendar 1938. pp. 75-90). His father sold the farm in Stuartburn in 1905 for $400.00 and moved with his family to Saskatchewan, settling in the Redberry distr., (later Krydor, Sask.). After several years of farming at Redberry Lake district, Maksym Stashyn sold his farm and moved to Albertown district, 40 miles north of Radisson and 20 miles behind Hafford, which at that time did not exist. That was in 1909. Many more Ukrainian settlers arrived at that time and settled in that district. They established a school district called Prosvita S.D. to serve their children. The first teacher in that school was P. Zakus, who later left teaching, went to the University of Manitoba, studied dentistry and settled in Winnipeg as a dentist. Another school was established in the district and A.T. Wawryniuk became its teacher. He also left the teaching profession, went to the university and became a lawyer. Michael Stashyn established a general store on his farm in Albertown. The store burned down the same year when his father died in 1917.

In 1918 he sold his farm and moved to British Columbia, 150 miles west of Prince George, taking with him his three younger sisters and brother for whom he became a guardian. The place had no school facilities and little social life, this induced Michael to return to the east. He sold all his property and in 1920 arrived in Chipman, Alta., where he opened a livery stable. Active in cultural and social life of the community. When depression came, his business suffered he sold it and moved with his family to live in Edmonton. In 1938 he had five daughters and two sons.

After 25 years they moved to Senkiv, where they farmed another ten years. In 1932 they sold their farm and moved to Ontario, settling on a small farm near Simcoe. Anastasia Storożchuk died in 1944 and was survived by her husband Prokop, three sons, William, Peter and Michael, and two daughters, Mrs. Wasylyna Kulachkowsky of Vita, and Mrs. Anna Kishensky of Windham, Ont.; 18 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. (U.V. 11 April 1945. Obit. of Mrs. Anastasia Storoschuk).

Prokop Storoschuk died in his home near Simcoe, Ontario, on Monday December 12, 1960 aged 90. He was born in Synkiv, Western Ukraine, 15 July 1871 and spent his early years with his parents. He married in 1896 Anastasia Kohut and one year later the young couple emigrated to Canada. They settled in the Stuartburn district, in what later became Tolstoi. . . In 1921 they moved to Senkiv, which bears the name of their native village. They farmed there until 1932. In the Stuartburn district God blessed them with one daughter and two sons. . . Unfavourable farming conditions compelled Prokop to sell his property and the family moved to southern Ontario, where Prokop acquired a small farm in the Simcoe district, which he worked until his death. . . He was buried in the Greenwood cemetery at Waterford, Ont., near the grave of his wife. He left to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Kishensky of Windham Centre, Ont., two sons, William and Peter, 10 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. (U.V. 3 May 1961. Obit. of Prokop Storoschuk).

Wasył, son of Prokop and Anastasia Storoschuk, born 2 February 1902 in Overstone, died 10 August 1967 in Waterford, Ont. aged 66. Surviving: wife Wasylyna (Wiwchar); married 38 years; six children. (U.V. 18 Oct. 1967. Obit. of Wasył Storoschuk).

Wife Wasylyna, daughter of Ivan Hudyma and Olena Storoschuk of Bridok, born 1856 in Bridok, died 13 August 1929 in Gardenton. Children on landing: Ivan 14, George 8, Manoli (Mike) 4, Nykola 2. Arrived in Canada on S.S. LAURENTIAN, landing at Quebec 28 June 1896. HGR Vol. 15. 1896-1898. No. 66666. Date of Application: 22 August 1896. Name: Wasył Zahara. Homestead: NW-2-2-6-E.I.M. Applic. No. 14182. Distr. No. 1. List. No. 793. Patent granted. Naturalization granted 12 June 1901. Jud. Distr. E. Man. Winnipeg. Name: Wasył Zahara. Residence: Stuartburn, Man. Occupation: Farmer. Former residence: Bukowina, Austria. In 1923 on same quarter section is listed W. Zahara & N. Zahara. P.O. Gardenton, Man. (CRDM Man. No. 3. 1923).

Wasył Zahara belongs to the earliest group of Ukrainian settlers in the Stuartburn district and probably the first Ukrainian family who emigrated to Canada from Bukovina. He married Wasylyna Hudyma and they had five children, one daughter and four sons. As there was not enough land to endow all his children, Wasył Zahara went across the border to Russian Ukraine to look for suitable land for settlement. After six weeks he returned disappointed and became interested in emigration to Canada. He heard about Canada from his friends in the neighbouring village of Synkiv, across the river Dnister, in Galicia, who were preparing to emigrate to Canada. He decided to join them. He sold his land and having obtained the necessary passports (after nine trips to the district governor's office) the family departed in June of 1896 for Canada. They landed at Quebec 28 June, proceeded to Winnipeg and August 18, together with other 26 families of Ukrainian settlers, went to the Stuartburn district to settle on homestead. Thus the nucleus of the future colony of Gardenton was established. The eldest daughter of Wasył and Wasylyna Zahara, Anna, married Sanda (Alexander) Sandul in Bridok and they joined the rest of the family in Stuartburn in 1900. Anna Sandul died 25 June 1937. Two more children were born to Wasył and Wasylyna Zahara in Stuartburn, a daughter Maria and a son Sandick. Wasył Zahara died 11 September 1930 and his wife predeceased him 13 August 1929. They were buried in the old cemetery near the Greek Orthodox (Onutska) church in Gardenton. Wasył Zahara's eldest son Ivon (John) born in 1882 moved to Rycroft, Alberta, with his brothers George, Mike, Nick and youngest sister Mary in the first decade of this century, taking up homesteads there. (Panchuk John, "A Sketch of Wasył Zahara the First Ukrainian Settler in Gardenton and the First Ukrainian Immigrant from Bukovina to Canada." Private print. Battle Creek, Mich. 1956. pp. 9).

Elder brother of Wasył Zahara, John Zahara, born 7 July 1839 in Bridok, son of Tanasko Zahara and Wasylyna Wakaliuk, arrived in Stuartburn in 1902, a widower; he died in Gardenton 3 May 1914 and was survived by children: Peter and Maria in Bridok, Nikolai in Gardenton, Irene (married Panchuk) in Michigan, George in California. Wife Anna predeceased him in Bridok. Daughter Irene married Wasył Panchuk in 1902 in Gardenton and they left Gardenton in 1916 for Detroit, Mich. Their son John graduated from the University of Michigan with a B.A. degree in 1926, took up Law, obtained LL.B. and J.D. degree in 1928, Phi Beta Kappa, Assistant Attorney of Michigan, later general counsel and secretary of Federal Life and Casualty Co.

Retired in 1969, residing in Battle Creek, Mich. Member of Rotary Club, 32° Mason, Delegate to Nat. Democratic Convention in 1960; presidential elector from Michigan 1948. Married Helen I. Lightfoot in 1931; three children, Maria a teacher, Jean Howard a teacher, John William with Westinghouse TV in Philadelphia.

Stefan Dragan was one of the "German speaking Galicians of superior class" mentioned by Commissioner of Immigration McCreary in his report to the Deputy Minister of the Interior in Ottawa in 1897. Stefan Dragan arrived in Canada with his wife and daughter in July 1897 and settled on homestead in the Pleasant Home district the same summer. He had public school education and acquired knowledge of German language during the three-year service with the Austrian Imperial Army. He supplemented his education while training for the rank of a non-commissioned officer. In Pleasant Home Stefan Dragan soon became one of the leaders of the young community, assisting immigration officers in locating settlers on homesteads, acting as interpreter and as school organizer. His wife, Anna Lukashchuk, passed away in 1929 and he himself died in 1947. They had two sons and seven daughters, and one of their sons, George Ernest Dragan, born in Pleasant Home in 1898 became a Medical Doctor and practised in Saskatoon, Sask. On July 10, 1925 he married Rose, the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. George Lazaruk of Edmonton, granddaughter of Nicholas Tyckowsky, one of the earliest Ukrainian settlers who came to Canada in 1892. Active in public life, was elected to the Saskatchewan Legislative Assembly 1934 representing Kelvington constituency (Liberal). For many years actively connected with the Order of St. John, he was presented October 29, 1964 with the insignia of Commander Brother of the Order of St. John by the Lt. Governor of Saskatchewan, in recognition for his 35 years association with the work of the St. John Ambulance Association. "Dr. Dragan was the first doctor of Ukrainian descent to practice in this province and he has devoted much of his spare time to stress to Canadians of Ukrainian descent that they should retain their national culture but 'always in the framework of being good Canadians.'" (Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, 30 Oct. 1964). Dr. G.E. Dragan died 29 January 1965 in the City Hospital, Saskatoon, Sask.

No. 777. Homestead cancelled. Cancel. Reg. No. 11583. Naturalization granted 9 August 1899. West Selkirk County Crt. Name: Jan Barski. Residence: Brokenhead, Man. Occupation: Farmer. Former residence: Galicia. In 1923 John Barski's son Clemens is listed on SW-7-14-8-E.I.M. P.O. Ladywood, Man. (CRDM Man. No. 52, 1923).

On arrival in Canada in the spring of 1895, the Barski family remained in Winnipeg for about ten months before settling on homestead in the Brokenhead district. Dr. Josef Oleskow visited Winnipeg in August of 1895 and "expressed a wish to visit the few Ukrainian families living in Winnipeg, most of whom had come from the village of Nebyliv in the district of Kalush in Galicia. . . In his booklet O Emigratsii/About Emigration, published on his return from Canada the same year, Dr. Oleskow mentions this visit. . . 'Ivan Barskyi who arrived here in 1895 has already $70.00 in the bank.'" (Kaye: pp. 28-29).

In April 1896 Ivan Barski and two other settlers, Dmytro Batenchuk and Oleksa Kandia, settled on homesteads in the Brokenhead district but were compelled to cancel the entries because the land was not released for homesteading. In March 1898 they petitioned to the Department of the Interior in Ottawa and after a long wait, the release finally did come and Barski was able to make the homestead entry.

Son Clemens born 1876 in Nebyliv, married Theodosia Stryk, born in distr. Lviv, in Galicia and they settled on Sec. 7-14-8-E.I.M. in Brokenhead district. Susanna Barski, born 1839, died 17 January 1912 on SW-12-13-8-E.I.M.

Date of Application: 25 May 1898. Name: John Komarnicki. Homestead: NE-1-14-7-E.I.M. Applic. No. 14659. Distr. No. 1. List. No. 878. Date of first Occupancy 1898. Fiat No. 82603. Patent granted. Naturalization granted 8 January 1896. Jud. Dist. E. Man. Winnipeg. Name: John Komarnitsky. Residence: Winnipeg, Man. Occupation: Carpenter. Former residence: Galicia. Not listed on same quarter section in 1923. (P.O. Ladywood, Man. CRDM Man. No. 51. 1923). John Komarnitsky came to Canada in 1892-93 and settled in Winnipeg as carpenter. He possessed a secondary school education and had a fair command of the Polish and German languages in addition to his native Ukrainian. He became acquainted with the early Ukrainian settlers from Nebyliv who came to Canada in May of 1892, several families of whom were residing in Winnipeg, and decided to become a one-man immigration company to induce Ukrainian families to emigrate to Canada. He signed letters which he dispatched to the old country as "vice-resident." (Oleskow, "O Emigratsii"/ About Emigration p. 64). John Komarnitski was well known in Winnipeg, as a letter written by F.W. Russell of 160 Austin St. Winnipeg, to the Minister of the Interior Hon. T.M. Daly indicates:

No. 27982. Immigration. Dept. of the Interior, 1896: Letter to Hon. T.M. Daly, Minister of the Interior, Ottawa. From: F.W. Russell, 160 Austin Street, Winnipeg, Man. 14 March 1896:

Sir:

You will doubtless remember that when you were up here attending the Immigration Convention you were waited upon by Mr. P. Klinkhammer with a man named John Komarnitski, regarding the publication under the auspices of the Government of a pamphlet in the Polish language which the latter party has compiled. You seemed to be favourably impressed with the idea and said you would talk the matter over with Mr. H. H. Smith. . . . As a matter of fact through exertions of this man Komarnitski forty-two families have been induced to come here. They are leaving in a few weeks and will bring with them $100,000, which in itself is proof of the fact that these settlers whom it would be worth while to make an effort to get hold of. They are the people who should be looked after when they get here, and, I am told, there is no one who speaks their language. Komarnitski has worked up the immigration and gone to a great deal of trouble to lay the advantages of the country before his compatriots. . . .

P.S.: I might add that Komarnitski has this week received a draft from Austria for nearly two hundred dollars sent him by the parties who are preparing to come here. They ask him to go there and accompany them out but he is as yet undecided what to do and don't like to leave here until he hears from you.

Instead of going to Europe, Komarnitski left Winnipeg and entered for homestead in Brokenhead. A number of Komarnitski families settled in the Dauphin district and some in Alberta. Their relationship is not stated. John Komarnitski born 1846 in Galicia, died 10 June 1920 in Ethelbert. Mike Komarnitski born 1866 in Galicia settled in Dauphin distr. and died 12 May 1935 in Dauphin, residing on SW-30-30-22-W.I.M. Philip Komarnitski born 1852 in Nezvyska, distr. UKRAINIAN CANADIAN RESEARCH FOUNDATION

INTRODUCTION

Canada's historians and scholars have become increasingly aware of the diversity of Canadian historical origins and society in recent years. This is primarily due to the efforts of researchers on the ethnic groups. Also, the official recognition of Canada's multiculturalism in 1971 has contributed to the growth of interest in this field of research. But the Ukrainian Canadian Research Foundation had the vision to see the need for scholarly historical and social research on the Ukrainians as long as twenty years ago.

ORIGIN

The idea of creating a research foundation slowly emerged during the early 1950s when it was evident that no serious research was being conducted on Ukrainians in Canada. The lack of scholarly material on the group in Canada came to the attention of Stephen Pawluk, the President of Ukrainian Branch Number 360 of the Royal Canadian Legion in Toronto.

The concern of patriotic Ukrainian Canadian veterans who had fought in World War II to preserve traditions of liberty and democracy was easily won to the task of discovering the history and heritage of Ukrainian Canadians through scholarly research.

To preserve the history of Ukrainians in Canada, the need for a formally established program and organization to sponsor and pursue research was clearly understood. Thus the idea and the enthusiasm of a sympathetic group merged together to establish the basic principles for a research foundation and program.

The Foundation commenced activity on December 29, 1957 under the name Taras Shevchenko Foundation and was incorporated under the present name as a non-profit corporation under the laws of Canada on June 17, 1965.

AIMS OF THE FOUNDATION

The principal aim of the Foundation is to study the Ukrainian ethnic group in Canada. This is achieved by supporting the research of scholars, publishing research and establishing a library and archives.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE FOUNDATION

1. The major achievement of the Foundation is the sponsorship of the research and publication by the University of Toronto Press of Early Ukrainian Settlements in Canada, by Vladimir J. Kaye in 1962.
2. The second published work of the Foundation relates the political integration of Ukrainians in Canadian life. This was the autobiography of the first Ukrainian member of the House of Commons, Michael Luchkovich, titled A Ukrainian Canadian in Parliament, and edited by John Gregorovich.
3. Persistence and Change: A sociological study of Ukrainians in Alberta was prepared by the sociology department of the University of Alberta from research funds provided by the Foundation. Professors C.W. Hobart and W.E. Kalbach headed this project.
4. A sociological research project on the Ukrainians in Toronto was sponsored at the University of Toronto.
5. A Dictionary of Ukrainian Canadian Biography: Pioneer Settlers of Manitoba prepared by V.J. Kaye and with an introduction by Professor W.L. Morton is now in press.
6. Ukrainian Canadian Participation in Two World Wars is being researched by V.J. Kaye.
7. The History of Ukrainian Education in Canada is being researched by Borislav N. Bilash.
8. A centennial record of Ukrainians in Canada 1965-7 consisting of 14,000 press and magazine clippings was compiled by the Foundation under the editorship of S. Pawluk. It presents the record of the sharing of Ukrainians in the 1967 Canadian Centennial Celebrations.

FUTURE RESEARCH

In addition to the accomplished research the Foundation has research under way on Dr. Joseph Oleskiw who played a major role in the pioneer settlement of the Canadian West and a bibliography of the Ukrainians in Canada. Under consideration are such projects as discrimination against Ukrainians and other Canadians in the mass media; a collection of documents, (printed, oral and visual), and materials for the social history of Ukrainian Canadians.
